It is with sadness that I inform all of us of the parish community that the sister Provincial and the Council members of the Salesian sisters have decided to withdraw its presence from Sruleen. Understandably, this decision has not been made lightly but after much serious and heart-wrenching discussion, and as always in a spirit of prayer, and with sensitivity towards the members of the local Salesian community here among us. As we are well aware, it is increasingly difficult, in fact, impossible for just about all religious congregations in Ireland, both female and male, to maintain their various locations of presence and ministry given the drastic decline in vocations. Most importantly, however, we are ever so grateful for the presence of the Salesians sisters since their arrival here. They have left an indelible mark among us through their quiet, prayerful, gentle, and compassionate presence. In the not-too-distant future it is our hope to invite the sisters back to celebrate with them a thoroughly well-deserved Mass of Thanksgiving followed by a light reception and chat in the Parish Centre.

On Sunday afternoon last, our parish welcomed Jamie Scanlon and Archie Cian Stringer into our Christian family. Congratulations to the parents and families involved. Let us hold them up to the Lord with our thoughts and prayers.

We pray that the recent gathering of young people from around the world with the World Youth Day festival celebrated in Portugal this past week has been an enjoyable, affirming, and re-assuring one in the faith of those in attendance. As always, since its inception, it affords the chance for them to meet, pray, build relationships, and to have some fun together with like-minded and like-hearted young people.

The Master Artist

Lord of the decades, the months and the days, Lord of the stars and each planet's phase, Your wondrous power makes us marvel and stare.

With your works of art, Lord, there's none to compare.

Lord of the music, the song and the dance, Lord of all beauty, of love and romance. Protect us and guide us in your loving care.

For with your works of art, Lord, there's none to compare.

Lord of the oceans, the rivers and streams, Lord of our poetry, pictures and dreams. Inspire us to trust in your eternal care.

For with your works of art, Lord, there's none to compare.

Lord of the mountains, the rocks and the sand, Lord of the dawn and the sunset so grand. How can we thank you for treasures so rare?

With your works of art, Lord, there's none to compare.
